2. Access and use of our social media profiles, purposes and legal basis

2.1 Facebook Insights

When accessing and using our social media profiles, Facebook insight data (statistics on access to our social media profiles) are made available by means of the tool Facebook Insights and processed by us. There is no way for us to personally identify you or assign you to your account. This function is an integral part of the user agreement with Facebook. This means that we cannot unilaterally decide whether the insight data are collected or not.

The personal data are collected by using cookies. They are small data packets, usually consisting of letters and numbers, which are stored on a browser when you visit our social media profiles. Cookies do not contain any data that identifies you personally, but the information concerning you stored by the operator can be assigned to the data received from and stored in the cookies. In addition, cookies can be used to store information about users who do not have a Facebook account.

You will find further information on the “Facebook Insights” tool, the use of cookies and the setting options at:

In your browser settings you can restrict or completely prevent the setting of cookies. Furthermore, you can arrange for the automatic deletion of cookies when closing the browser window.

If you are using the Facebook app, you can change settings for setting cookies by apps in the settings of your mobile device. Information on the legal basis and the purpose of the processing by Facebook as well as the respective storage period can be viewed at:

Insofar as we process your personal data by visiting our social media profiles, the admissibility of this processing is based on Art. 6 (1f) GDPR. According to this provision, processing is lawful if it is necessary for the purposes of the legitimate interests pursued by the controller or by a third party, except where such interests are overridden by the interests or fundamental rights and freedoms of the data subject which require protection of personal data. The legiti-mate interest lies in evaluating the anonymised insight data in order to trace the usage behaviour of our followers and, as a result, to optimise the range of services on our social media profiles. The insight data collected via our social media profiles are made available to us in an anonymous form. The personal data collected are modified in such a way that they can no longer be assigned to an identified or identifiable natural person or can only be assigned with a disproportionate large amount of time, costs and effort.

The provision of your personal data for registered users is prescribed contractually by Facebook. The provision of your data is therefore obligatory. If you do not provide your data, you will not be able to use your Facebook account. Non-registered users are not obliged to provide their data. However, if you do not provide your data, you may not be able to access our social media profiles properly.

2.2 Communication through our social media profiles

Through our social media profiles, it is possible to contact us via the message function, the like buttons and the possibility to comment on posts on our social media profiles. If you contact us, the operator will be shown the name that is stored in your user profile as your user name. The admissibility of this processing is based on Art. 6 (1f) GDPR, according to which the processing is lawful if it is necessary for the purposes of the legitimate interests pursued by the controller or by a third party, except where such interests are overridden by the interests or fundamental rights and freedoms of the data subject which require protection of personal data. The use of data for purposes of communication in the context of using the fan page with the users of our social media profiles constitutes a legitimate interest of the operator according to Art. 6 (1f) GDPR.

Under certain circumstances, the data transmitted by you will be stored in our customer management system. Usually, this happens whenever you send us a request that serves to prepare or perform a contract with us.

The admissibility of this processing is based on Art. 6 (1b) GDPR, according to which the processing is lawful if it is necessary for the performance of a contract to which the data subject is party or in order to take steps at the request of the data subject prior to entering into a contract. The data processed by the operator are required to respond to your message.

The provision of your data is neither prescribed by law nor contractually nor necessary for the conclusion of a contract. You are not obliged to provide your data. However, the provision of the data is necessary to enable you to contact the operator in the manner described above.

The processed personal data will be erased after expiry of the legal retention obligations, unless the controller has a legitimate interest in further storage. In any case, only those data that are absolutely necessary for the achievement of the respective purpose are stored. As far as possible, the personal data are anonymised.

You have the right to obtain from the operator restriction of processing where one of the requirements specified in Art. 18 (1a-d) GDPR applies.

3.5 Right to object (Art. 21 GDPR)

You have the right to object, on grounds relating to your particular situation, at any time to processing of personal data concerning you which is based on Art. 6 (1e or f) GDPR, including profiling based on those provisions. The operator shall no longer process the personal data unless the controller demonstrates compelling legitimate grounds for the processing which override the interests, rights and freedoms of the data subject or for the establishment, exercise or defence of legal claims. Where personal data are processed for direct marketing purposes, you have the right to object at any time to processing of personal data concerning you for such marketing, which includes profiling to the extent that it is related to such direct marketing. Please use the contact address mentioned above for your message.
